§ 02 · STRATEGY

Decisions Locked

The six strategic choices that define v6 — and how each one rewires the deck.

Locked: 2026-04-24 Prior state: v5+ (Apr 14) — retail pivot research validated, deck still showed subscription model.

Carried forward from 2026-04-14

#	DECISION	SOURCE
1	App is fully free. No subscription gate on core value.	decisions.md
2	Revenue comes from retail — curated products, own-brand, third-party.	decisions.md
3	Research-backed curation is the trust engine. Every recommendation backed by studies.	decisions.md

Locked today (2026-04-24)

#	DECISION	CHOICE
4	Premium tier paywall	Digital twin extended — bio-age score, predictive model, advanced insights. Feels like a genuine extension of the free product, not a feature gate. CGM + doctor-review loop deferred.
5	Own-brand vs curated split	Curated-only at launch. Own-brand introduced Phase 2 (Month 9+). Matches the Thrive / iHerb pattern: curate to build trust, then capture margin.
6	Physical space role	Digital-first. Physical deferred to Phase 2. Not in the €500K raise. If a pop-up window opens, take it — no permanent lease in the base case.
7	Product pricing architecture	Transparent margin model — show cost + Alche markup. Aligns with The Ordinary comp, German price-sensitivity (60-75% switch for better deals), and is the differentiation itself.
8	Fulfillment model	Hybrid — own-brand fulfilled by us (Phase 2), curated dropshipped (Phase 1). Low capital at launch, vertical integration when own-brand justifies it.
9	Investor comp story	"Xiaohongshu for longevity in Europe" + Costco proof point. Primary: content→commerce flywheel at $31B valuation. Secondary: membership fee funds operation, unlocks commitment.

Downstream implications (what these decisions do to the deck)

SLIDE	CHANGE REQUIRED
1 Cover	Unchanged
2 Problem	Reframe: not "longevity is overwhelming" alone — add "no European editorial-curator exists"
3 Insight	Reframe: "your smartest friend" stays but now is explicitly retail-curator
4 Solution	Rewrite three pillars: (a) AI protocol (free), (b) curated commerce, (c) transparent margin
5 How It Works	Add a fourth step: "Products arrive"
6 Product	Update screenshots to show free protocol + storefront
7-8 Features	Remove "Pro/Premium" framings; add "Evidence library", "Transparent margins", "Digital twin (premium)"

SLIDE	CHANGE REQUIRED
9 Market	Add Germany €7.2B supplements + European white space narrative
10 Audience	Keep but reframe around purchase behavior, not subscription willingness
11 Competitive	Rebuild table: Alche vs Sunday Natural, AG1, Thrive, The Ordinary, Xiaohongshu (EU context)
12 Business Model	Full rewrite. Delete subscription tiers. Replace with retail+membership composition.
13 GTM	Reframe phases: waitlist → curated launch → membership → own-brand
14 Traction	Reuse
15 Roadmap	Reuse with adjusted milestones (add: first 20 SKU partners, 3PL onboarded)
16 Financials	Full rewrite. Retail model numbers. Base/conservative/optimistic.
17 Unit Economics	Full rewrite. AOV €70, 6 orders/yr, CAC €35, LTV €350, LTV:CAC 10:1 base
18 Team	Reuse
19 Why Now	Add European white space + retail-first timing (AG1/Ritual US-saturated, EU underserved)
20 Vision	Keep; add “editorial commerce standard”
21 The Ask	Full rewrite. €500K pre-seed. New allocation: inventory capital line.
22 Why Alche	Rewrite: “Xiaohongshu for longevity in Europe” headline. Drop “12-15x LTV:CAC” claim.
23 Social Proof	Placeholder until traction
24 Contact	Unchanged
25 Appendix	Add revenue-model research summary + EU regulatory note
26 Back Cover	Unchanged

What the investor sees differently in v6

Before (v5): “We’re building a longevity SaaS with 12-15x LTV:CAC and 85% gross margin.”

After (v6): “We’re building editorial commerce for longevity in Europe. Our content is free. Our retail is the business. The math works because membership funds operations (Costco) and content drives purchase (Xiaohongshu). Day-one revenue, not 23-month payback.”

The story stops pretending to be SaaS. It starts being what it actually is — and the comps are bigger, the market is more European, the unit economics are honest.